

Drive to School in-person screening before and after poll.

Before the screening

Key insights:

20% thought the correct definition of statelessness was false

20% did not know the definition of statelessness

20% did not know a person can be born stateless

25% thought the statement “states determine who is a national but they also have an obligation to ensure that anyone born on their territory is not at risk of statelessness” was false.

25% thought the statement “states determine who is a national but they also have an obligation to ensure that anyone born on their territory is not at risk of statelessness” was True.

50% did not know whether the statement “states determine who is a national but they also have an obligation to ensure that anyone born on their territory is not at risk of statelessness” was true.

A child is born stateless every

10 Minutes: 60% / 10 Hours: 32% / 10 Days: 8%

Drive to School in-person screening before and after poll.

After the screening

How would you rate your understanding of statelessness before the watching the film?
Poor: 52%	Fair: 12%
Average: 8%	Good: 28%
Excellent 0%

How would you rate your understanding of the issue of statelessness among some people of Vietnamese decent in Cambodia before viewing the film?
Poor: 61%	Fair: 9%
Average: 13%	Good: 17%
Excellent 0%

How would you rate the film for building your awareness of statelessness
Poor: 0%	Fair: 0%
Average: 9%	Good: 52%
Excellent 39%

How would you sum up your opinion of the film
Really powerful and upsetting
Good
Insightful
So impactful and enlightening. Inspirational
Beautiful insight given into an unknown story, would've appreciated more context of the history of the Vietnamese people in Cambodia
N/A
A very moving short film that captures a glimpse into the lives of those really living in the issue. I really hope it has an impact and can be shared with those in power who can make the big changes.

Drive to School in-person screening before and after poll.

N/A
It was good. A ray of hope at the end would have been great though
It made me feel hopeful in done ways - reminded me that we can all do something - that we're called not to be overwhelmed but to do what we can.....
Loved it, really liked how personal it was, light touch and storytelling
Very informative and moving
A excellent film, that really opened my eyes up to statelessness, I feel like I will be taken a better understanding away with me.
Very interesting
Very powerful and inspiring. Reminded me that small things matter, individuals matter so we have to try
Really informative. Sensitively filmed.
It was really good
Touching movie
Presented issues so well and so impactful in many ways. Want to know more. So impressed with the difference one person can make
A great platform for raising awareness of such a vital issue, really human, really sharing the reality of Vietnamese communities in Cambodia. Well done Charlie!
Thought provoking and emotional account of the issue. It has raised my awareness and inspired me to know more. Thank you
So important - it invokes so many different emotions, it makes me want to do something and highlights how just even raising awareness makes a small difference. I like that the film is 'real' not polished but gives a glimpse into the everyday life of the couple featured. It has a level of 'raw-ness' to it.
Brilliant way to highlight the issue. The focus on missionary action seemed to overshadow the issue of being stateless and I don't feel it presented the interviewees in quite the positive light that was suggested afterwards. While the work being done was to help and provide opportunity it came across as more beneficial to the missionary organisations' agenda(s) than the children and community.

Do you think the film will cause you to respond to the issue of statelessness? If so, how?

I'll write to MP
Yes I will look at what I could do to help
Yes, petition, financial support
Will sign the petition and write to my MP!

Drive to School in-person screening before and after poll.

Absolutely...
Yes - signing petitions, more insight to hold conversations
Sign more petitions
I think i will continue to stay soft and listen to alternative stories of migration and statelessness
Yes, don't know yet
Definitely raise awareness
To raise awareness. Sign petitions
Yes I would definitely like to think so.
Sign the petition
Not sure, it makes me want to sign the petition'
Yes, I plan to contact my local MP. Also consider what I can become involved in more locally to support those seeking asylum in the Uk
Yo
Write to MP
Yes definitely
Explore new creative ways to highlight this issue and the work of Cord
Yes. I want to know more and to help in any way I can.
Yes, I learnt around the subject in my degree, the film reminded me of this but stirred my heart in a different way to when I had 'read' about statelessness. I plan to sign the UN petition and to think of what else I can do.
Yes but only as a result of the conversation afterwards and unsure how yet.
How would you sum up your opinion of the film
Really powerful and upsetting
Good
Insightful
So impactful and enlightening. Inspirational
Beautiful insight given into an unknown story, would've appreciated more context of the history of the Vietnamese people in Cambodia
N/A
A very moving short film that captures a glimpse into the lives of those really living in the issue. I really hope it has an impact and can be shared with those in power who can make the big changes.
N/A
It was good. A ray of hope at the end would have been great though
It made me feel hopeful in done ways - reminded me that we can all do something - that we're called not to be overwhelmed but to do what we can.....
Loved it, really liked how personal it was, light touch and storytelling

Drive to School in-person screening before and after poll.

Very informative and moving
A excellent film, that really opened my eyes up to statelessness, I feel like I will be taken a better understanding away with me.
Very interesting
Very powerful and inspiring. Reminded me that small things matter, individuals matter so we have to try
Really informative. Sensitively filmed.
It was really good
Touching movie
Presented issues so well and so impactful in many ways. Want to know more. So impressed with the difference one person can make
A great platform for raising awareness of such a vital issue, really human, really sharing the reality of Vietnamese communities in Cambodia. Well done Charlie!
Thought provoking and emotional account of the issue. It has raised my awareness and inspired me to know more. Thank you
So important - it invokes so many different emotions, it makes me want to do something and highlights how just even raising awareness makes a small difference. I like that the film is 'real' not polished but gives a glimpse into the everyday life of the couple featured. It has a level of 'raw-ness' to it.
Brilliant way to highlight the issue. The focus on missionary action seemed to overshadow the issue of being stateless and I don't feel it presented the interviewees in quite the positive light that was suggested afterwards. While the work being done was to help and provide opportunity it came across as more beneficial to the missionary organisations' agenda(s) than the children and community.